1. Teachers in secondary schools have been instructed to "actualize and politicize" all subjects taught by them. Special courses are held for teachers in order to show them how to inject the proper political content into their lessons. A professor who serves as inspector, accompanied by a member of the Rumanian Workers Party, frequently visits classes to check on the execution of these instructions. Each teacher must prepare and keep a daily notebook on the subject-matter for each class in order that a check may be made on his teaching.
2. The division of all pupils into four categories according to social origin plays an important role in all school activities, influencing even the pupil's grades.
3. The statistical service of the Ministry of Education has sent to each school detailed forms for the compilation of statistics on the social origin of pupils according to the background of their parents. The four principal categories have been subdivided into sixteen subcategories for determining the social origin of parents:
 - a. Workers.
 - b. Members of agricultural workers' syndicates.
 - c. Functionaries and military men who are the children of workers.
 - d. Members of collective farms.
 - e. Agricultural workers (middle and poor peasants).
 - f. Salaried employees.
 - g. Artisans earning less than 100,000 lei annually.
 - h. Businessmen earning less than 100,000 lei annually.
 - i. Artisans earning more than 100,000 lei annually.
 - j. Businessmen earning more than 100,000 lei annually.
 - k. Liberal professions.
 - l. Present and former industrialists.
 - m. Present and former bankers.
 - n. Kulaks.
 - o. Discharged functionaries.
 - p. War criminals and those sentenced for crimes against the security of the state.
4. Pupils are so overworked that they refuse to attend Sunday meetings for the purpose of visiting expositions glorifying the USSR.
